Following is from Icelandair concerning changes to passport requirements

Passport to Iceland

Dear passenger,

We are emailing to notify you of changes to passport requirements for passengers arriving at Keflavik Airport in Iceland.

If you are connecting to flights to North America this will not impact you, but travelers visiting Iceland and Europe will need to meet these new requirements.

From February 1, 2018, if a passenger holds a passport issued by a non-EEA/EFTA country, the passport should be valid for at least three months beyond the passenger's planned date of departure from the Schengen area.

In addition, passports must have been issued within the last 10 years.

Passport control authorities at Keflavik Airport will be enforcing these passport requirements. For more information, see Passport Control & Schengen on the Keflavik Airport website.

We look forward to welcoming you on board.

Kær kveðja/Best regards

Icelandair
